That li'l runt named Chi is nothing but trouble. For some reason she doesn't seem to know her place when dealing with more mature felines. Heck, she might not even know she is a cat at all! But for a little one she sure does know how to get around. She isn't afraid to head off into the night, either, for after-hours feline furloughs. Maybe Chi's not that bad of a tabby after all. With some proper influence she could eventually be a little less annoying...maybe not.
